The old saying that wins and losses determine the outlook of a season may hold for some, but those who know the true reason for athletics realize that to succeed does not necessarily mean to have a perfect record. The 1977-78 wrestlers learned this. The five seniors who led the grapplers may forget the few wins they had this season, but they will always remember the love and respect for their coach. Their leadership not only fostered respect in the younger wrestlers, but carried the team through the season, with the kind of pride and spirit only a true "team" comes to know.
